NEW YORK (April 16, 2014) – Sports car buffs are in for a roaring good time as the all-new Lexus RC 350 F SPORT zooms into Javits Convention Center to take its place among Lexus' energetic lineup at the New York International Auto Show. The RC 350 F SPORT shows off its adventurous attitude for the first time since its Geneva debut here in America's hotspot for fashion and design.

The RC 350 F SPORT has a bold overall presence with its eye-catching unique mesh grille and 19-inch mesh alloy wheels. Interior features include an instrument panel with LFA-inspired moving center ring and perforated leather steering wheel and shift knob.

Still looking for a thrill? At the Lexus booth, the all-new RC F continues to demonstrate Lexus's disruption of the luxury coupe segment as it flaunts more than 450 horsepower with its 5.0-liter V-8 engine and progressive, high-performing personality. The athletic new coupe's visceral energy is sure to surprise.

Not to be outshined, the rare and mighty LFA supercar Nürburgring edition holds court among the Lexus model lineup with its 4.8L V10 engine. The limited edition LFA features 562 horsepower, quicker gear-shift time, a larger front spoiler, fixed rear wing, sport-tuned suspension and exclusive black mesh-type wheels.

If you can tear yourself away, continue the experience under the IS Lift where you can see everything F SPORT up close, and then get a firsthand look at the entire impressive collection of Lexus vehicles at NYIAS, including:
